MRS. FRANK LESLIE WEDS.

She Becomes the Wife of an English Journalist.

The marriage of Mrs. Frank Leslie and William C. Kingsbury Wilde has created a society sensation because it was unexpected and unconventional. The couple attended the Sunday evening service of Rev. Dr. Charles F. Deems, at the Church of the Strangers, in New York city, and were married immediately after, at 9:30 p. m., in the church parlors. The best man was the little humorist Marshall P. Wilder, who has always been a great friend and admirer of Mrs. Leslie.

A little over a year ago a license was issued in London for the marriage of Mrs. Leslie and the eccentric Marquis de Leuville, and a search showed that nearly a year before—to wit, on Aug. 19, 1889—they had gone before the registrar and declared their intention to marry, and the lady was then set down as "a widow, thirty-eight years old." They did not wed, however, for reasons perfectly satisfactory and creditable to the lady.

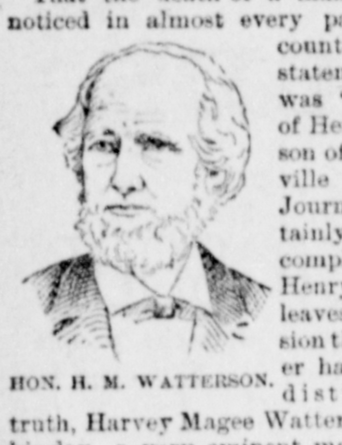
The bride was born Miriam Florence Folline, her birthplace is New Orleans, and her blood is creole French. Her early brilliancy in literature, her marriage to the publisher Leslie, and her heroic business career after his death are familiar to Americans. The groom, a brother of Oscar Wilde, is a manly and handsome gentleman of forty years, a graduate of Trinity college, Dublin, and a very prominent and successful English journalist.

The bride proposes to retain the name Frank Leslie in business.

PROMINENT BEFORE THE WAR.

Death at a Good Old Age of Ex-Congressman Harvey M. Watterson.

That the death of a man should be noticed in almost every paper in the country with the statement that he was "the father of Henry Watterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal" is certainly a great compliment to Henry, but it leaves the impression that the father had no other distinction. In truth, Harvey Magee Watterson was, in his day, a very eminent man, quite as eminent as his son now is.



HON. H. M. WATTERSON.

He was born in Bedford county, Tenn., Nov. 23, 1811, was educated at Cumberland college, Princeton, Ky., and was prominent as editor, politician and member of the Tennessee legislature from 1832 to 1839. In the latter year he was elected to congress to succeed James K. Polk, who had become governor, and was re-elected in 1840, but declined a third nomination. He was appointed minister to Buenos Ayres by President Tyler on the unsolicited recommendation of Andrew Jackson, and filled the post with great credit. He was subsequently president of the state senate, editor of the Nashville Union and associate editor of the Washington Union, which was the organ of President Pierce. In 1861 he was elected to the Tennessee convention as an unconditional Union man, and after the war became editorial contributor to his son's paper.

It seems that Maj. McKinley does not know that the merchants who import goods add to the cost of them the amount of the tax. Every dollar the importer advances to pay the tax he adds to the price at which he sells. If the cost, for instance, of steel rails, plus the duty, makes a total higher than the American price, no foreign rails are shipped to America. The tariff is, therefore, clearly a tax. It is a tax collected by the government levied on imported articles, added to the price and paid by the consumer. Or else it is a tax which excludes the foreign product, is added, in whole or in part, according to the exigences of trade, to the price of the domestic product, and goes not to the government, but to the American manufacturer or trust. Down with the robber tariff!—Courier-Journal.

BRODHEAD, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—Rev. W. J. Holtzclaw, of Jeffersonville, Ind., is assisting Rev. A. J. Pike in a meeting at the Baptist church. One addition and others manifest a desire to be saved.

—T. S. Frith sold to George Huff a nice bunch of sheep. Isaac Rector sold to J. H. Albright a milk cow for $22.50. A. Elliot, of Pendleton county, bought of Wm. Ruber 40 acres land at $5.

—Mrs. Ross Hiatt, of Rowland, who has been visiting friends here, returned home Thursday. Mrs. Dr. Benton is visiting at Wildie. Mrs. Dr. Mays and children, from Paint Lick, are here under the treatment of Dr. Burdett for their eyes. P. F. Cable, the "shadow-catcher," of Maretsburg, was in town this week. Thomas McMillan, of Pineville, is visiting relatives here. John Newland, who has been for some time in the employment of the Short Line railroad, is at home. H. N. Mitchell and Ed Montgomery, who have been at Middlesboro for some time, have returned. Miss Eliza Yeakey returned from Paint Lick Tuesday, where she was called to see Miss Mattie, her sister, who has had a severe attack of typhoid fever. We are glad to say she is much better at this writing. Mrs. Nannie Albright, of Mt. Vernon, is visiting relatives here. Mrs. Burnside, the music teacher from Mt. Vernon, was in town this week. Silas Jones, of Corbin, is here having Dr. Burdett treat his eyes. Mr. E. C. Walton was with us this week, looking after the interest of your valuable paper. Mrs. Turpin, of Orlando, who has been visiting here, returned home, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Tate.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—The 100th anniversary of the establishment of Presbyterianism west of the Alleghenies was celebrated at Uniontown, Pa., Tuesday.

—A bronze statue of John Wesley is to be erected in Washington as a monument to the second Methodist Ecumenical Council now in session there.

—Rev. R. H. Crossfield, of Harrodsburg, will preach at Turnersville at 11 A. M. and at McKinney at 7 P. M. on Sunday, Oct. 25th. The public cordially invited.

—Rev. Charles A. Parish, who preached the belief that Adam was a black man, earned a big popularity by his theory, which he has since then considerably discounted by claiming that the watermelon was the forbidden fruit.

—The African Methodist Conference, held at Midway, transferred Rev. E. Wilson to Richmond and sent Rev. W. H. Crowdus to this appointment. Mr. Wilson has endeared himself greatly to his congregation, who regret to have him leave.

—In New York Sunday 1,800 gathered to see a 287-pound negro baptized. The preacher didn't weigh more than half as much, but he handled his man dexteriously and did the job to the entire satisfaction of everybody, including the heavy weight.

—It almost appears as though a fatality attends the president of Bethany College, W. Va. Dr. Woolery died some two years ago of typhoid fever and now Prof. J. M. Tribble, the newly elected president, was stricken down and died with the same disease.

—The Barbourville News says that Charley Brafford, an old sinner, professed religion at the Woodbine meeting and had repaired with the converts to the creek to be baptized, when he espied Deputy Sheriff Spoul in the crowd. As there were several indictments against Brafford he thought the deputy was after him, so he struck out with the remark, "I can't be baptized to-day" and is perhaps on the run yet.

Colored Teachers.

Tho Colored Teachers' Association of the counties of Boyle, Lincoln and Garrard met at the Christian church, Stanford, Saturday and spent the day with great pleasure. A great many of the teachers could not get here, but Rev. Isaac Fisher, of Danville, took an active part and helped out nicely.

The subjects of the papers were: "What means are necessary for the betterment of Public Schools?" Miss Mollie Butcher and John E. Tice. "The relation of Teacher to Patron." Mrs. Sopha Craig and Miss Lena Tibbs. "How to gain the attention of small pupils." Miss Alice V. Carr. "Requisites of a successful school," Miss Mattie Morgan and Miss A. H. Cooke. Poem, "The Teacher's profession," Miss Mattie Crow. "The evil arising from a constant change of schools," Prof. J. M. Bates and Miss Pattie Turner. "The teacher's relation to the profession," Miss Mary Kincaid and Miss Fannie Carr. "The development of the faculty of expression," Miss Ida Miles and W. D. Tardif.

W. D. TARDIF, Pres.

MISS ALICE V. CARR, Sec.

—Owing to the sickness of three justices, including Chief Justice Fuller, the U. S. Supreme Court has postponed the anti-lottery, Behring Sea and McKinley act cases until the 2d Monday in November.

CONTENTED AND HAPPY.

How a Husband Illustrated His Position.

He settled back in his easy chair, put his feet on a footrest, lit a cigar and for five minutes let the smoke curl up around his head. He was a picture of comfort.

Then his wife interrupted his meditations.

"George, you're getting lazy," she said.

He shook his head.

"But when we were engaged," she persisted, "you were as active as any man I ever saw. Why, you were always getting up excursions, and you were the life of every party."

He puffed out a little whiff of smoke and nodded his acquiescence.

"What's the matter?" she asked.

He took another puff at his cigar and then said:

"Ever see a man try to catch a train?"

"Why, yes," she replied in surprise.

"Ever see one rush on the station platform just as the train seemed almost gone?"

"Certainly, I have."

"Got a pretty lively move on him, didn't he?"

"Why, yes; he ran the entire length of the platform as fast as he could. But, George"—

"Caught the train, did he?" asked George.

"Yes; he just barely caught it. He"—

"But he caught it?"

"Of course he did. But, George, you're straying"—

"Did he keep right on running?" interrupted George.

"Certainly not. He settled down in a seat and made himself as comfortable as possible, got a palm leaf fan, and five minutes later seemed perfectly contented and happy."

"Well?"

"Well, what of it?"

"Do you expect me to keep on running?"—Chicago Tribune.

That Flowery Theologue.

A certain young theologue went down from Princeton to Philadelphia to preach. He was one of those extremely flowery writers who dazzle rhetorically the tender souls of the younger members of the congregation, and the elders of the church were besieged to have him down again. They at length consented, but alas! they had forgotten his name. So they wrote to one of the seminary professors, saying: "Please send us that floweret, streamlet, rivulet, starlight man to preach for us next Sabbath. We have forgotten his name, but we have no doubt you will be able to recognize him."

He was recognized. He was sent. He became pastor of the church.—Northern Christian Advocate.

Heroic Remedy.

Distressed Young Mother (with crying baby in railway carriage)—Dear, dear! I don't know whatever to do with this child!

Kind and Thoughtful Bachelor (on the opposite seat)—Shall I open the window for you, madam?—Il Carlino.

Information.

They had been talking about Beethoven, "Vogner," Annie Rooney and other musical celebrities, when she remarked:

"Do you know 'Maggie Murphy's Home?'"

"No! Is she?" he replied, somewhat startled at the rapid change of subject. "I didn't know she was away."—Exchange.

A Comparison.

The following incident occurred in a Medford school:

A class in grammar was reciting, and one of the younger boys was asked to compare "sick." He began thoughtfully, "Sick," paused while his brain struggled with the problem, then finished triumphantly, "Sick, worse, dead."—Harper's Bazar.

Enough to Make Him Cross.

Spatts (to his grocer)—You seem angry, Mr. Peck.

Peck—I am. The inspector of weights and measures has just been in.

"Ha, ha! He caught you giving fifteen ounces to the pound, did he?"

"Worse than that. He said I'd been giving seventeen."—New York Sun.

Born to a Mission.

"Ethel has always said that she believed she was born with a mission to reform something, and it appears she was right."

"Indeed?"

"Yes, she has married a minister's son."—New York Press.

—The Odd Fellows will meet next year Covington.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Quarterly Court was in session Monday and Tuesday. Very little business was transacted.

—The Cooking Club was royally entertained Monday evening by Mrs. Sim Anderson, on the Danville pike.

—Some 10 or 15 Lancaster people went to Lexington to-day to attend the great trots. We guess they will get home safely, as they bought round-trip tickets.

—The contested election case between J. C. Hemphill and Walton Eason for police judge of Lancaster, will be tried in the Lincoln circuit court next Monday.

—The negro, Zeke Reid, who shot the little negro girl some three weeks ago, was arrested Tuesday. At the examining trial he was held over to circuit court in the sum of $100, which was furnished.

—The little daughter of Mr. Jim Pumphrey, who got a burr in her throat, is in a critical condition. The burr was removed by a surgical operation performed by Drs. O'Neal and Cowan, but inflammation has set in.

—William C. De Witt said in a speech at the democratic convention, Saratoga, New York, that "the jackass when he got the lion's skin did not thereby become a lion. The bray and length of ears soon betray his native character."

—Lancaster was honored by a visit from the distinguished author and historian, Thomas Marshall Green, on Tuesday last. He was here in the interest of the sale and distribution of his latest publication, "The Spanish Conspiracy," a work of interest to the people of Kentucky and one showing great research and excellent scholarship. Mr. Green belongs to a distinguished family and as a writer has achieved an enviable reputation throughout the State and the Nation.

—Cabel Denny and Dr. Tom Hood are spending a few days fishing in the Cumberland river. Miss Mary Spilman has been visiting Miss Kate Kinnaird. Misses Georgie and Jennie Moore, of Lower Garrard, were in town the first of the week shopping. We are exceedingly glad to see Mr. John Lear out again, after a long spell of fever. Mr. Robert Dunn ("Cub"), of Danville, passed up to Richmond a few days ago. A. H. Rice is in Cincinnati on business.

—Gov. J. Proctor Knott passed back to Lebanon Sunday from a visit to Pineville on legal business. He does not think that many radical changes of the present organic law are necessary and is satisfied that the convention can complete its labors in 60 days."—INTERIOR JOURNAL, Sept. 2, 1890. It is hardly necessary to say that inasmuch as the work was not completed until April 11, 1891, a period of over 7 months, the ex-governor has not succeeded in establishing a reputation as a prophet or the son of a prophet. Indeed, it is doubtful whether he is a first cousin or distantly related to a prophet. It may be that he has some faint recollection of having read something of the sayings and doings of the prophets in his boyhood days. To say the least of it, the ex-governor in this instance has proven himself to be a false prophet, although he should be excused on the ground that his acquaintance with the business methods of his co-laborers was at that time somewhat limited.

—The controller of the currency's report will show that from October 1, 1890, to September 30, 1891, there were 214 national banks organized, with a total capital of $23,400,000. Of the banks organized seven were in Kentucky and their total capital amounted to $615,000. Last year the total number of national banks organized was 307, with a capital of $30,250,000. This shows a big falling off and would seem to indicate that the national banking system is losing ground.

—In his various appointments Gov. Campbell, of Ohio, has a way of asking every man in his audience, who has had his wages increased by reason of the passage of the McKinley bill, to stand up, and nobody has stood up yet.

—D. H. Black, county clerk of Knox, died Tuesday.

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL

STANFORD, KY., OCTOBER 16, 1891

W. P. WALTON.

WHEN we fought the adoption of the new constitution it was not because there were no good things in it, as we said at the time, but because the bad, as we were convinced, overbalanced the good. Among the latter is the sections relating to courts. The system has been considerably simplified and improved. After the expiration of their present terms there will be no more superior, common pleas or criminal courts. We will have only the court of appeals and circuit courts. Quarterly and county courts will continue, but there will be only one justice of the peace in each district. The counties can have their fiscal affairs managed by the county judge and justices, as is now done generally, or they may have the county judge and three commissions, elected from the county at large.

DR. KEELEY, of Dwight, Ill., has discovered a certain cure, as he and numerous patients allege, for drunkenness. It is said to be very simple. He doesn't limit the liberty of his patients by any iron chain of regulations, but merely requires that his medicine shall be taken at regular intervals. As Dr. Mines describes it, he administers to each new patient a hypodermic injection in the upper left arm and gives him a bottle of a bichloride of gold mixture, a dose of which is to be taken every two hours while awake. It cures in two weeks and takes away the desire for strong drink for all time. It is to be hoped that this is no Brown-Sequard Elixir of Life or Koch's consumption cure humbug.

BREAKING records being the order of the day and inspired by the performances of Dr. Sparks, Cheyenne and others, Col. J. G. Craddock, so we are informed by the Leader, actually marched up to the counter of the Clarendon Hotel at Lexington and threw down the money for dinner for himself and friend. This is the first money he was ever seen to spend for such a purpose and the hotel man will keep the coin as a historical relic. The story that Craddock paid for anything bears the persuasive odor of its own improbability and if the Leader were not such a reliable paper we would give no credence to it. Surely the old man is getting "doty".

THE court of appeals has affirmed the judgment of the Green circuit court, which assessed a fine of $900 against the L. & N. for running a construction train in that county and repairing its road on Sunday. The fine was under the violation of the Sunday law, in which the court of appeals, while holding it valid, draws a distinction between necessary and unnecessary work on that day. There is a great deal of unnecessary work done by railroads on Sunday and it is well enough to have the courts check it up, in some degree at least.

THE Louisville Truth says that Mr. Will T. Price has been appointed managing editor of the North American Review, a position which brings him at once into great influence and prominence in the world of letters. Mr. Price is the author of "Without Purse or Script," the life of Rev. George O. Barnes. He is an exceedingly accomplished writer and a singularly amiable and modest man. His friends in Kentucky will be very glad to hear of so distinguished a recognition of his merits.

NOTWITHSTANDING the constitutional inhibition against counties voting aid to railroads, Montgomery county went ahead and on Monday last by a majority of about 700 voted to subscribe $100,000 to the Kentucky Midland. The president of the road, Wm. Lindsay, Esq., is confident that he can make the subscription stick and will make a test case of it before the courts.

OLD CASH CLAY says the constitution as altered and amended is constitutional and that settles it. The man who dares to dispute a question with him runs the risk of looking into a pistol muzzle. Old Cash has demonstrated in times past that he will shoot. We believe he killed a negro on one occasion, under circumstances which, while not altogether creditable, still showed that he would shoot.

THE Frankfort Capital sent out as a supplement this week the new constitution, as altered and amended by the convention. Whether it had the right or not, most of the changes made by the body are for the better and as suggested during the campaign by the opposition.

CARLISLE still has a democratic post master, but his commission is about to expire and all the republicans in that neck of the woods are scrambling for the office. It is said that Col. Bradley is backing H. B. Bryson, which if true, settles the question in his favor.

GOV. KNOTT and other lawyers agree with Gov. Brown that the convict parole law is unconstitutional and there will be no more ticket-of-leave-men. Gov. Brown can turn them out fast enough with his pardon prerogative; at least as fast as they ought to be.

THE Maysville Commonweal says that Gov. Buckner, the delegate from Hart to the constitutional convention, not only drew mileage for two round-trips, $82.80, but the $25 allowed each member for stationery, and adds that this delegate, too, it should be borne in mind, was holding two offices at the same time; was drawing a salary of $5,000 a year as governor and a salary of $5 a day as constitutional delegate; was furnished a house to live in and did not have to travel a mile to get to his post. That the governor was entitled to the amount there is perhaps no doubt, but under the circumstances, it was rather a smaller thing than we thought him capable of doing.

THE law passed by the legislature requiring the counties to pay $20 of the $75 allowed for the support of pauper idiots per annum, has not as materially decreased the number as it was expected to do. In 1890 the number on the charge of the State was 1,418; this year it is 1,372. In this judicial district there are 158 pauper idiots, Pulaski heading the list of counties with 29; Rockcastle and Russell coming next with 26 each and Casey and Wayne with 25 and 23 respectively. Lincoln is close up with them too, the more's the pity.

LITTLE RUTH CLEVELAND was not exactly born with a gold spoon in her mouth, but the Clover Club has put one in it already. It is in the shape of a four-leafed clover, with elegant filigree work and is made of solid beaten gold. We hope the little miss will never need to take paragoric or other medicine out of it.

THE Supreme Court has declared "a duty on imports is a tax paid by the consumer." McKinley says it is paid by the foreign manufacturers of the goods. But, as the Courier-Journal aptly remarks, McKinley's no judge.

WE are glad to note that Editor H. M. McCarty is fast improving. May he be spared many years yet to the profession he elevates and adorns.

NEWSY NOTES.

—J. M. Thomas' four-story warehouse at Paris burned, entailing a loss of $25,000.

—The census bureau says there are 14,220,000 school children enrolled in the U. S.

—The Columbia and the Mechanics' Trust Companies, of Louisville, have consolidated.

—Three steamers that arrived at New York from Europe Monday brought $3,120,000 in gold.

—Twenty men in fishing boats were washed out to sea at Rockaway Beach by the high waves and lost.

—Watch out for counterfeit dimes, bearing the date of 1891. A large number are said to be in circulation.

—The Cope-Doolin trial at Somerset resulted in a hung jury, after lasting a week and the jury being out 24 hours.

—It is rumored and generally believed in Louisville that Attilla Cox will run for Congress against Asher Caruth.

—Fire at Paris destroyed Beasley & Shackleford's factory and a lot of tobacco stored in the building. The loss is $25,000.

—The first convention of the Kentucky Bankers' Association will be held Oct. 21 and 22, at the new Board of Trade hall, Louisville.

—The democrats of Fayette county have nominated Edward Frazier for sheriff and James C. Rogers for clerk of the circuit court.

—A "law and order" club at Pittsburg will attempt to stop the publication of Sunday newspapers in that city. This is getting entirely too good.

—George and Jim Howard were killed by a man named Cups in Montgomery county, when they went to his house for the purpose of whipping him.

—Pearls of great beauty and value have been discovered, it is, claimed, in great quantities, in shells, in the Cottonwood river, near Guthrie, Oklahoma.

—Grand Master Duncan reports that 947 members were added to the Odd Fellows in Kentucky during the year, making the membership in the State 7,500.

—An explosion of two kegs of powder in a freight car in which some negro laborers were sleeping, at Birmingham, killed four and wounded several others.

—The municipal election at Indianapolis resulted in the choice of the democratic ticket, Mayor Sullivan being reelected. The majorities range from 1,500 to 3,000.

—The Atlantic is still storm swept, the gales on the English coast being the severest for years. Much damage was done ashore and many sea casualties are expected. Many vessels in distress were sighted.

—The man arrested in Louisville for beating a hotel turns out to be Charles J. Christian, the Todd county circuit clerk, who recently obtained a judgment of $2,000 against the Courier-Journal for slander.

—In Owen county Dr. J. L. Massie, a wealthy physician, shot down Jesse Hanover, who was unarmed and walking along the public road. A woman is said to be at the bottom of an affair that led to the assassination.

—The celebrated Mercer mineral well at Bowling Green has been purchased by a stock company for $10,000. The company will begin bottling and shipping the water. A sanitarium will be erected there next spring.

—The steamship Rome, with a crew of 43 and a cargo of 575 cattle, went down off Newfoundland and all were lost.

—Mr. George W. Morris, of Louisville, was re-elected Grand Treasurer of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, at Maysville. He has held the office for 35 consecutive years.

—John Hoey, of New York, president of the Adams Express Company, was deposed by the board of directors for malfeasance in office. He was a party to a deal by which the company was swindled out of upward of $700,000.

—The sale of property of Judge W. S. Pryor, of New Castle, realized $33,030.93 for the benefit of his creditors. Judge DeHaven, for an association of lawyers, bid in the home place of 106 acres for $16,300 and deeded it to Mrs. Pryor, so it cannot be sold for any debt of the family.

—The campaign in Kings county was opened at Brooklyn Tuesday night by ex-President Cleveland, who addressed a large and enthusiastic audience on State issues and their relation to national affairs. Mr. Cleveland was heartily applauded, and greeted with "three cheers for our next President."

—Melbourne, the Australian "rainmaker," has signed a contract to produce crop rains in Northwestern Kansas during June, July and August, 1892. He is to be paid 10 cents for every acre supplied. Northwestern Kansas would evidently be a good field for the bunco and green goods industries.

—J. J. Rusk, of Danville, was elected grand chief templar of the Kentucky Grand Lodge of Good Templars, in session this week at Louisville. A resolution to commit the members to the prohibition party caused much discussion and it was agreed that while the order advocated the principles of that party, it would not make a political out of a non-political body.

—Fort Smith, Ark., has more hangings than any place in the country. Nearly all the U. S. prisoners sentenced to death are hung there, and the hanging is all done by one man, named Malladon, about 65 years of age. He has broken 97 necks on the same scaffold and has swung off as many as 6 at one time. Malladon gets $25 for every man he hangs. Sometimes the hangman gets to talking about the men he has executed and cries like a child.

—There have been severe storms on the Atlantic and many smaller craft have been lost. The Cunarder Umbria was at the mercy of the waves for four days and several passengers were injured. During the storm Mrs. C. P. Moorman, of Louisville, died suddenly. The Umbria reached New York two days overdue. The steamship Augusta Victoria struck storm after storm and was damaged. The big steamer Alaska is much overdue and she doubtless met rough weather.

INVENTORS AND INVENTIONS.

AN inventor has applied for a patent for an automatic child spanker.

A DOLL that writes letters on a slate is a recent invention of a machinist in Nuremburg, Germany.

THE New Jersey man who secured a patent on his idea of placing rubber on the tips of pencils is said to have realized $200,000 from it.

HALLIDAY, the inventor of the cable street-car system, states that the sight of six horses vainly endeavoring to draw a car up a steep hill at San Francisco first suggested to him the foundation for his invention.

A NEW pattern of shoemakers' awl is encircled by a spiral spring. After a blow has been struck and the point of the awl has pierced the leather, the reaction of the spring throws it out again and saves considerable time and trouble.

ITEMS FOR FAIR READERS.

TWENTY-TWO newspapers in Kansas are edited by women.

THE day-census of the city of London shows that there are now 50,416 women engaged in the city during the day as against 44,179 in 1881.

A SPOON for measuring medicine, by which a dose can be administered without spilling, has been invented by Mrs. Horace Goodwin, of Boston.

"WOMEN, white or black," said Stanley, recently, "I regard as far above us. They are more humane, they are more prompt with sympathy, they are more tamable to new ideas than we of the opposite sex."

IN eighteen months Miss Kate Smith rose from a sixty-dollar clerkship under government to one with a sixteen hundred-dollar salary. She is the only woman chief of division in the service of the government.

ARMY AND NAVY.

THE duke of Cambridge, commander in chief of her majesty's army, is known as "Umbrella George."

NEXT to Great Britain, France has the greatest number of ironclads, Italy, Russia and Germany ranking third, fourth and fifth respectively as maritime powers.

A TRIAL recently made in the German army showed that dispatches can be sent more speedily by horsemen than by bicyclists. The horses were not ridden at high speed, while the bicyclists went at full speed.

ITALY will return to her medieval practice in the launching of a ship. Hereafter when her new ironclads wed the sea not champagne will be used at the ceremonial, but a gold ring hanging from the vessel's bow will be dropped into the sea.

HEREAFTER every soldier on active service in the British army will have a card attached to his clothing bearing his name, rank and regiment. This plan is to facilitate identification in case of death on the battle field. It has long been in vogue in the German army.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

—E. T. Pence sold to W. A. Coffey a car-load of hogs at $4.10.

—E. P. Owsley sold to W. A. Coffey 180 hogs averaging 180 pounds at 4 cts.

—Forestus Reid bought 35 mule colts of various parties at an average of $45.50.

—Dr. J. G. Carpenter sold to Farris & Hardin a 2-year-old Alderney cow for $30.

—J. H. Swope bought of Johnson, of Boyle, 26 head of 3-year-old cattle at 3 cents.

—Millions of bushels of wheat have been destroyed by wet weather in Minnesota.

—FOR SALE.—25 head of jack stock ready for service. J. K. Baughman, Hustonville.

—W. S. Scott bought in Estill county 28 feeders, weight 1,150 pounds, at 3¼ to 3½ cts.—Winchester Democrat.

—The Mt. Sterling Sentinel notes the sales of 26 mountain ewes at $4 each and 100 Southdown ewes at $7.50 each.

—Morris & Brooks bought of Oliver Shields, of Anderson county, 34 2-year-old steers at 3½ cts.—Glasgow Times.

—FOR SALE.—Several thoroughbred Black Berkshire pigs, both sexes, 6 weeks old, at $3 to $4 apiece. J. Blain, Stanford.

—Dr. Sparks won the race and reduced his record to 2:17¼ at Lexington. In another race Bonnie Wilmore trotted 5 h.

—G. Leslie Carter says that Mr. Root had nothing to do with that 116-pound pumpkin. He raised it all by himself.

—T. D. Chesnut sold to Geo. Wood 15 head of 1,060-pound cattle at $30 a head and 25 290-pound hogs at 4 cts.—Advocate.

—The trotter Monbars, at Lexington, broke all 2-year-old trotting records by going a mile in 2:19¾. The first half was done in 1:07¼.

—The directors of the Jessamine County Fair Company have decided to give a two days' fall trotting meeting on Nov. 3 and 4.

—The first day's sale of trotting horses by Woodard & Shanklin at Lexington realized $46,415 for 27 and the second $23,580 for 27.

—J. S. Owsley, Sr., sold to Gentry, of Boyle, 58 head of shipping cattle at 3½ cents and 12 New York cattle at 5 cts. All for Nov. delivery.

—Sunol knocked a half second off his record at Stockton, Cal., doing a mile in 2:10 flat. She will try again next Tuesday to eclipse Maud S.

—The Cincinnati cattle market is quiet with choice shippers at 5¼, common to fair butchers 2 to 4½; hogs are weak with best at 4.90; sheep are steady at 2¼ to 5, lambs 3 to 5.

—A Texas farmer, who has 400 acres planted with 11,000 pecan trees, calculates that in six or seven years, on the basis of an average yield of a basket for each tree, he will get a net return of $50,000 for them.

—California is sending 136,000 gallons of claret wine to Paris by way of New York. The shipment is expected to return in French labeled bottles for the delectation of Americans who do not think that the wines of their own country are quite suited to their refined tastes.

—Nancy Hanks was not in condition to enter the match race with Allerton at Lexington yesterday, but in order not to disappoint the crowd Doble substituted the stallion Delmarch, that holds the fastest race record of any stallion. The understanding between the parties is that should Delmarch win he is to trot a match race week after next with Allerton at Independence, Iowa, for $5,000. Delmarch has a record of 2:11½. He and Nancy Hanks have the same race record.

—The engagement of John Kocher to Miss Rosena T. Tsang, of Ottenheim, is announced. The wedding day has not been fixed.

—Mrs. Catherine Gano, widow of Eld. John Allen Gano, and mother of Gen. R. M. Gano, died at Dallas, Texas, aged 82. Her husband was one of the founders of the Christian Church.

THE deed of the Kentucky Central to the L. & N. is just being recorded here and will occupy about 25 pages. The consideration is $10 in hand paid and the mortgage. It bears date of Sept. 22, 1891.

WE have had no rain yet, but the farmers are putting in wheat right along and will materially increase the acreage. The first sown is up and looks well. Corn cutting is progressing fairly and while the farmers tell us the ears are not so large as usual and the shuck thicker, there is yet an unusually abundant crop.

THE people of Middlesboro, who had well nigh given up all faith in the future of the town, are all full of hopeful feelings again and are confident that the city will boom more than ever. Mr. E. F. Powers will succeed Mr. Arthur as president and he will arrive from London with that $1,250,000 about Nov. 1.

G. B. COOPER, county clerk, has filed with us the list of claims allowed by the court last week, which would have appeared this issue but for a shortness of force. The claims foot up $10,068.24, nearly $2,000 less than last year, but still too much. Pularki county's is no greater, although the county is nearly double as large and has 10,000 or more population than Lincoln.

FIRE.—The residence of Greenberry Bright near Hubble, occupied by him and John W. Bright and family, caught fire from a bad chimney at an early hour Wednesday morning and was soon in ashes. But little of the furniture was saved, so the loss may be considered entire. The house was a two-story frame and can probably be replaced for the $1,500 insurance on it. The furniture &c. was insured for $250.

THE directors of the Middlesboro Town Co., at a meeting held in London, Eng., Monday, agreed to furnish an additional £240,000 to finish the industries there, and to push the development. This means the completion of the waterworks, costing $750,000, and the immediate erection of the South Boston Iron Works, the Daves Charcoal Furnace and the finishing of the Overbeck Brewery, the new canal and the sewerage system. It further emphasizes the fact that the English investors have no idea of selling their property to Vanderbilt, Col. Brice or the many others whose names have recently been mentioned as probable purchasers.

THE 5 cents ad valorem and the 50 cents poll tax the court of claims of this county will ask the legislature to authorize, is entirely for road purposes. The present system of working roads amounts almost to nothing, as those who answer the calls to work do but little more than put in time and those who fail to respond are rarely without an excuse sufficient to prevent the imposition of a fine. The intention is to raise by taxation money to hire hands to work the roads at a fair price per day for a fair day's labor and have an overseer to see that those who work earn their money. It is thought that the system will improve the roads and at the same time not increase taxation, which we are told will not exceed the regular 20 cents on the $100.

THE court of appeals has reversed the decision of the Bell circuit court in the case of Sam Clay, Jr., vs. Gibson. Several years ago Mr. Clay secured an option on Gibson's 1,500 acres of land near Pineville at $1 an acre. When the time came for payment Mr. Gibson was not disposed to stand up to his bargain and he absented himself from home in order to prevent a tender of the money. He was, however, finally run down in Virginia and the purchase price of his land tendered him in gold. He refused to accept it and a suit was brought against him to force the execution of the deed. The court held that the contract was not reciprocal and decided that the plaintiff had no remedy. About 18 months ago Mr. Clay told Col. W. G. Welch, of this place, that if he would look into the case and take it to the higher court he would give him a good fee for it if he won, which, as stated above, he has done. The decision means a good deal to the Cumberland Valley Land Co., which is the principal beneficiary under the decision.

REMEMBER at Rowland you get the diamond-shaped photograph at 75 cents per dozen. Frank Cordier. 3t

THE Kentucky Building and Loan Association of Louisville has opened up a branch business here. Mr. W. H. Miller has been chosen president, A. A. Warren secretary and treasurer and J. S. Owsley, Jr., attorney. About 200 shares of stock have already been taken.

As Jailer Sheppard was taking Wm. Robinson, colored, from the court-house to the jail at Somerset, after his conviction of house-breaking and sentence of five years, he broke loose and took to his heels, but was captured a mile from town. This is Robinson's second sentence, his first having been given him in this county.

MR. CHARLES STARR, the Philadelphia water works man, writes Mayor Vandeveer that he will be here within the next 10 days to see about building the water works. We hope our readers will not allow this announcement to unduly excite them. It has been made before. When Mr. Starr gets here it will be time enough to bring out the brass band.

MISS LICCIE BEAZLEY has now on exhibition the most complete stock of millinery ever brought to Stanford and she is able to guarantee satisfaction to the most fastidious. The goods are of the latest designs, the trimming is faultless and everything is designed to please. A call at her parlors on Main street will convince you that you do not have to seek further for anything in her line. Prices very reasonable.

AMONG the 11 suits for divorce to be tried at the approaching court is that of Mrs. Henrietta Dawson against B. F. Dawson. In her petition she charges base and inhuman treatment, causing her to take refuge with her mother, that he is a drunkard a gambler and is wasting his means so that he is unable to provide for her. Mrs. Dawson was Miss Ferrell and still retains much of the beauty for which in her young womanhood she was remarkable. Arthur Wallin sues his wife Emma for a divorce, alleging abandonment. The other suits are by persons of lesser note and negroes.

THE people of Crab Orchard will be called on to-morrow to say whether they will vote a tax to support a Graded Free School in their midst, and it is hoped that they will respond with a vigorous affirmative. Besides the incalculable good that the youth will derive, money voted the school will prove a good pecuniary investment, as nothing tends more to increase the value of property in and around a town than a good school. People with children will seek to locate there and houses and land will be in demand. The citizens can well afford to vote the tax, looking at the question from every point of view.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—Rockcastle has the best water in the mountains.

—Mr. W. M. Hicks is in from Middlesboro. Miss Rillie Payne, of Crab Orchard, is visiting the family of Mr. Jas. Houk.

—E. B. Smith, as special commissioner, has been selling a general stock of merchandise and a saw mill and fixtures at Livingston during the week.

—W. E. Smith, supervisor, was knocked from a moving train near St. Mary's by a plank that was being unloaded and seriously injured, Monday. On Tuesday M. L. Smith, supervisor on the South division, had something like vertigo, falling on some cinders, seriously cutting his face in several places.

—We have prophecied so often about the future of our county that it has probably become somewhat monotonous to your readers, but will repeat that the prospects are growing brighter. The various minerals, of which there are quite a number and in vast quantities, lately discovered, are receiving the attention and being investigated by parties who are satisfied that the future will develop surprises in the mineral line.

—Mr. G. W. Baker was down from London Sunday. Mrs. Mollie Sharpe and daughter, accompanied by Miss Mary Lawrence, left yesterday for Grenada, Miss., on their return to their home at San Angelo, Tex. Miss Georgia Miller returned to Mt. Sterling with her aunt, Miss Lucy O'Rear, where she will visit relatives. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, of Garrard, accompanied by Mrs. Ellen Jackson, of Sherman, Texas, were here during the early part of week to see relatives. Mrs. Jackson's family moved from this county 20 years since to Texas. This is her second visit to Kentucky. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harbison, of Parksville, are spending a week with relatives here. Mr. M. F. Brinkley, now with a Cincinnati house, was with us Wednesday. Mr. R. A. Welsh, for some time at Big Stone Gap, is at home for a short visit. Dr. Ellis and wife with friends are visiting at Wildie. James Miller and Sally Denny, of Pine Hill, were married at this place Wednesday. Several families from this and Pulaski counties will leave for the West next week.

—There was a serious accident on the B. & O. railroad near Garrett, Ind., a fast train leaving the track. Two passengers were killed and several others were seriously injured.

—Auditor Lavelle is in jail at Washington, Ind., charged with being the principal in an attempt to burn the court house and the records. He is believed to be a defaulter.

—Carothers & Bro., dealers in dry goods at Bardstown, have failed for $20,000. Their assets more than cover the liabilities.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF STANFORD, KY.

Capital Stock........$200,000
Surplus.................. 16,500

Attention of the public is invited to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford. Under the provisions of the National Bank Act, depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' liability for an amount equal to the stock, so that depositors of this institution are secured by a fund of $400,000. Five sworn statements of the condition of the bank are made each year to the United States government and its assets are examined at stated times by government agents, thus securing addititonal and perfect safety to depositors.

This institution, originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1858, then re-organized as the National Bank of Stanford in 1865 and again re-organized as the First National Bank of Stanford in 1882, has had practically an uninterrupted existence of 32 years. It is better supplied now with facilities for transacting business promptly and liberally than ever before in its long and honorable career. Accounts of corporations, fiduciaries, firms and individuals respectfully solicited.

The Directory of this Bank is composed of
T. J. Foster, of Stanford;
Forestus Reid, Lincoln county;
J. W. Hayden, Stanford;
S. H. Baughman, Lincoln;
M. J. Miller, Mt. Vernon;
S. T. Harris, Lincoln;

NUGGETS FROM BILL NYE

HE PAUSES AT PHILADELPHIA AND THROWS OFF A FEW REMARKS.

This Leads to Some Religious Ruminations—Tale of a Man Teacher Who Tried to Snatch a Brand from the Burning—He Still Lives.

[Copyright, 1891, by Edgar W. Nye.]

PHILADELPHIA, October.—Philadelphia is pre-eminently a city of homes. The domestic quality stands first of all with the true Philadelphian, and other matters are made secondary to it. Somehow this gives us faith in the Philadelphian and respect for him. Twenty years ago Philadelphia had over 600 building associations in prosperous operation. The custom, even then, of selling to people of small means a lot and home, to be paid for in the shape of rent, was quite general and successful. Everything is done here to foster the home. The fostering hand of Philadelphia has a steady job, winter and summer.

The food supply of this city is practically unlimited. One can always buy things here for eating purposes, and at a reasonable price. The markets are large, abundant and well supplied with almost everything from stewed terrapin to pickled pemmican.

The water supply is a source of great local pride, and much of the good health of the community seems to be due to that. Physicians tell me that open wells should be looked upon with much suspicion, and I believe that to be true. Much poison is engendered in open wells by the decay of insects alone, which fall in and are unable to get out again until decomposition has taken place. Other animal life also conceals itself in the bottom of the well, so that the old oaken bucket, the one-thing-and-another bucket that hanged in the well, is at times as productive of injurious results as the wine cup.

I remember that we had a school well near the gothic dugout in which I used to read Horace and Veritas, with my thoughts far away in the Greek and Roman suburbs and my little soiled toe in a rathole under my desk. Once the typhoid fever broke out in our school and carried off enough of my class in Sallust so that I was almost at the head. I guess I would have been at the head of the class if it had not occurred to the teacher to have the water analyzed and the well cleaned out.

They found at that time, as near as I can recall the circumstance after so long a time, three moss covered buckets that had disappeared many years before, a gallon of angleworms that had died in one another's arms, a venerable dictionary of the English language, a blackboard eraser, an old Bay State shawl, a ladder, a tin dinner pail, a pair of yarn mittens and a former teacher named Rider, who had disappeared the day before he was to come to our house to board. And yet we lived as well at the time as most of the neighbors did.

The manufactures of Philadelphia are very extensive, and said to be greater than in any other city of the Union, extending all the way along the scale from the iron bridge of commerce down to the unassuming ax helve of the work-a-day world. It is safe to say that the city is one of the most prosperous in this respect within the borders of our trim little republic.

The exports of Philadelphia used to double every five years, but whether this ratio has been maintained recently I have not the data at hand for ascertaining, and on the instructions for pushing the bell button in my room I do not see any authority which will warrant my ringing for more data. Each room is supposed to be supplied with all the data it ought to have at one time, I presume, and if one wishes to use more he must do it at his own risk and his own expense.

The Mathilde Adler Loeb Dispensary is a free-for-all institution founded by Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Adler. There is also a Home for Aged and Infirm Israelites, with a capacity of 100 inmates. I do not know why it should be so large. The information that there is a possibility of the time coming when there will be 100 Israelites in this country who cannot take care of themselves and loan money to others will come to many of my readers like a clap of thunder from a clear sky.

It is dedicated to the relief of the sick and wounded, "without regard to creed, color or nationality." That throws more light on the subject. I did not visit it, but I will bet a new pack of foxhounds against a two bushel bag of anise seed and a full cry that the institution is filled with colored people. No colored man is going to allow a nice new hospital to remain vacant so long as he can disembowel his foot with an ax and then get nursed back to health again.

The broad spirit of kindliness and generosity shown in the construction of these and many other institutions in Philadelphia is manifest everywhere, and to be called the City of Brotherly Love is an ambition which is laudable to a degree. I do not know what it is to be laudable to a degree, but the expression occurs in a book which I am now reading and I thought I would use it.

Sometimes we find charity and tolerance where we would least expect it, and vice versa. In North Carolina, where I may now be regarded as a summer resident, taxpayer and fellow citizen, there is, in some parts of the state, a strong religious sentiment which must be extremely gratifying to a factional deity. I do not know, of course, how a prayer is received at the Throne of Grace which is ticketed as coming from the Reformed or Established or Re-established This-that-or-the-other Church South, or the Hardshell Aquatic church looking northwest. The committee on credentials must be pretty busy sometimes settling the question of whether rain prayed for by the high church shall be supplied or the cessation of rain requested by the low church, or whether good times with unlimited coinage shall be given by request of the Up-and-coming Church South or good times with a restricted currency be sent to the country in answer to the requests of the Up-and-coming Church North.

A man teacher, who is a pronounced Episcopalian and who is zealous as all should be in every walk of life, got into difficulty a few weeks ago not far from my cabin home. He and the mother of a young girl of the neighborhood had talked the matter over and decided to enter the name of the girl as an applicant for membership in the Episcopal church. But at that time a revival broke out in the community, led by a man with limited information but great lung power. He was a plain man, with an active boil on the back of his neck.

"His heart was good but his blood was bad," in the language of a tarheel acquaintance of mine.

The girl, however, was led away from the teachings of the Established church by the more passionate prayer of the revivalist, together with the vociferous song service led by him with the aid of a little black walnut organ in which the tremulo had been pulled out so far that it could not be got back. The mother tried to show her how it would pain her to be saved in this informal and vociferous manner, but she still attended the revival, obtaining thereby much comfort and steady company to and from.

The mother became quite exercised over this matter and her housework together, and so called in the man teacher and asked if he would not go with her to the meeting and see if he could not persuade the young woman to return. He had a kind heart, and so he said he would. He went in while the mother remained outside waiting. As he came in he saw that the young girl was on the mourners' bench; but he had promised her mother, and so he went to where she stood. All were singing. He spoke to her softly and asked her to return with him and have some style about her, but she shook her head.

Then the leader said, "Let us pray." His prayer consisted of a general attack on the man teacher, "the devil that had come among us to steal away the lambs of the fold," etc. The prayer was no doubt actionable. Of course the man teacher should have had more sense than to go in there and try to snatch a brand from the burning when it was really another man's brand. When you fool with another man's brand out where I used to live you suddenly find yourself feeling around with your feet for a flour barrel which some rude hand has kicked away. (The idea of kicking away a flour barrel by means of the rude hand is original with me.)

Well, to make a long story short, another hymn followed and then a prayer that left the Throne of Grace fully informed regarding the record of the man teacher. It referred to him as the child of hell and heir presumptive to that low, malarial piece of property. It was a prayer that would peel the varnish off an ordinary pulpit and scorch the fringe on the altar cloth. It was replete with sensational information and crisp editorial comment. It had hard words in it, and was highly flavored with references to hell as a railroad center and general outfitting point for people who toyed with brands which others were in the act of snatching from the burning.

The result was that in the back part of the sanctuary a feeling was created to that extent that in fifteen minutes the man teacher fled, followed by a mob, one or two of whom he saw pulling their knives as they came. The mother ran one way and the man teacher the other.

I MET HIM IN THE WOODS.

He did not dare return to his boarding place for two weeks, and when he did he was arrested for disturbing religious worship.

I saw him after he had been in the forest two or three weeks as a result of this "doctrinal difference," as he called it. He was in need of repairs. He told his story with some feeling, and said that he did not wish to be regarded as a dangerous man. I do not think he was. He meant well, I am sure, but he said he never had to sit by before and listen to such an abusive prayer.

He is below the medium height, and does not strike one as being at all dangerous to human life. He is a man with a slight physique, but otherwise very well. His legs are short and his whiskers grow very rank and are faded at the edges like the tail of a red setter. He is certainly a well meaning man, and lives almost exclusively on thin gruel and a well to do widow woman of advanced thought.

I give his story as he tells it himself, and it is not a sensational story, but comes from a man who says that he is convinced now that his zeal took him too far. At another time he would be more conservative and take his meals in the house. He says that he would not again place himself where he would become the topic of such a scathing prayer for the best pair of steers in Henderson county. He contemplates doing religious and possibly pastoral work in the future, but will guard against awaking a spirit of offensive prayer and will see in the future that when approaching the throne of Grace he will avoid jostling those who are armed.

They Were in the Cemetery.

A certain man in Lima is the fond father of four young Americans. He desired to move this month, but found that desirable quarters could only be secured by families without children. He finally resorted to strategy, and finding a house that suited him, called on the agent. "Have you any children?" inquired the agent. "I have, sir, there are four out in the cemetery." "Oh, that's too bad. Well, you may have the house." A few days after that the diplomat moved in. The agent passed by, and noticing several children in the yard, stopped and took the man to task.

"I thought you said your children were in the cemetery?"

"So they were, sir. I sent them there to fix up our lot the day I rented the house."—Lima (O.) Daily Times.

FINE BLUE-GRASS FARM FOR SALE.
The Executors of Thomas M. Lillard, deceased, will at his late residence, on Wednesday, Oct. 28, 1891, offer at public sale his fine Farm of 450 Acres, located on the Danville & Stanford turnpike, four miles from Danville and 6 from Stanford. This farm must be seen to be appecated. A few salient points are these: 1st. The land is rich and productive, as the crops now upon it prove. 2d, It is splendidly fenced and watered. 3d, It has been farmed judiciously for 30 years by one of the best farmers in the State and now it is free from all weeds or impediments to the richest returns. 4th, It is so thoroughly improved that no expense will be required on it for years. 5th, The house cost $12,000 and is a large, two-story brick, splendidly built, with 10 rooms, numerous closets and pantries, large halls, basement under whole house and good out houses. 6th, It is only 4 miles by pike to Danville, the educational centre of Kentucky. 7th, The neighborhood and social surroundings are nowhere excelled. 8th, It is as good a fine horse and stock farm as can be found. 9th, It is equally as good for grain and annual crops as for stock and grass. 10th, It has been kept largely in grass for many years. Ninety acres will be sown in wheat by the day of sale; the balance of the farm is in grass, except 40 acres reserved for corn.
Terms of sale easy.
At the same time and place will offer for sale a tract of Knob Land containing about 120 acres, well timbered and within half a mile of Junction City. Also the Crops, Stock and Personalty, including ten shares Boyle National Bank Stock.
